Capacity strengthening Partnerships

 Democratic Republic of Congo

Recommendations from GADHOP concerning partnerships

By Jérémie Kasereka, director of Groupe d'Associations de Défense des Droits de l'Homme et de la Paix (Group of Human Rights and Peace Defence Associations, or GADHOP), Democratic Republic of Congo

GADHOP's recommendations concerning partnerships are as follows:

That international organizations continue to support their implementing partners with regard to the monitoring of key community protection structures (CPSs) in order to reinforce awareness-raising, the contingency plan, referrals and the evaluation of changes concerning care services.

We encourage international organizations to support new partners, even after a project is completed.

That international organisations ensure that they are informed with regard to protection needs in the crisis areas covered by local partners, and that they jointly provide financing, since protection remains a priority domain in long-troubled areas.

International organisations and donors may obtain information from organizations already present about the local partners that carry out protection actions, in order to continue the activities that the latter have initiated.
